TIFFANY & CO
Schlumberger Bird On a Rock Brooch

The American jewellery powerhouse took London by storm this summer, with an astonishing retrospective at Sloane Square's Saatchi Gallery, of its 185 year old history. Here, Jean Schlumberger's iconic 1956 Bird on a Rock, rendered in gold and platinum, is re-imagined sitting on an oval tsavorite. White Diamonds & Yellow Diamonds over 47 carats, £POA.

DE BEERS JEWELLERS

Aura Rings

De Beers Aura fancy yellow-green cushion-cut diamond ring

Few do diamonds like De Beers and these two exceptional rings are what diamond dreams are made of. To the left an incomparable cushion-cut 2.15ct green diamond; and to the right a 3.08ct oval-cut pink, both surrounded by white diamonds. It just goes to show – diamonds really are forever, and in every colour! £POA

BOUCHERON

Yellow Gold, Malachite and Diamond Serpent Bohème Ring

Boucheron – for the ring. This might be one of the longest running French jewellery maisons, but you'd never think of it as 'old'. Their trailblazing styles have created a furore. Set with malachite and diamonds in yellow gold, the Serpent Bohème Ring displays a modern design, with traditional gemstones, £7,450.
